

A Consensus About Day Care: Quality Counts

Roni Caryn Rabin

New York Times, 9/18/2008

One of the first decisions working parents must make is whether to place their child in a day care center. Preschool programs and day care centers have been studied extensively by researchers, and the reports are usually a mixed bag of risks and benefits.

View Article on the New York Times