

National Commission on Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Reform

11/9/2010

University of Chicago economics professor discusses why investing in early education for disadvantaged children helps the United States maintain competitiveness in the global economic market.

Read the release